

CONGRESS MUST ACT: PROTECT PT PROFESSIONAL DEGREES

APTA

Academy of Clinical
Electrophysiology &
Wound Management

The US Department of Education is considering a recommendation to change the definition of a professional degree program for the purpose of student loans. A recent recommendation dramatically limits who may qualify, excluding physical therapists, physician associates, advanced practice nurses, and others who have qualified in the past.

This is not what Congress intended. We need you to contact your members of Congress to urge them to intervene and ensure the Department of Education follows the intent of Congress and includes the broad range of health care professions that have historically been considered professional degrees.

Use the QR Codes below to learn more and contact your members of Congress today!

Read APTA's statement on the issue:

Contact Your Members of Congress:

